Directions: Use the photograph, source information, and background information to answer the questions below.

Source information

Title: “Young Driver in Mine: Had been driving one year. (7 A.M. to 5:30 P.M. Daily) Brown Mine.”

Date of photograph: 1908

Photographer: Lewis Hine

Location: Brown, West Virginia

Background information: Lewis Hine took this photograph for the National Child Labor Committee (NCLC) in 1908. The NCLC had hired Hine to photograph children working in mines, factories, textile mills, and farms. The NCLC used the photographs to raise awareness about the dangers of child labor. Hine’s work for the NCLC helped change public attitudes and reform child labor laws.

Question 1: Why might the background information above lead you to question the photograph’s reliability as evidence of the dangers of child labor at the time?

________________________________________________________________________

________________________________________________________________________

________________________________________________________________________

Question 2: What is one aspect of the photo that might lead you to question its reliability as evidence of the dangers of child labor at the time?

________________________________________________________________________

________________________________________________________________________

________________________________________________________________________

CONTINUE ON BACK
Question 3: What is one thing you would want to know about Lewis Hine or how he took this photo to better determine its reliability?

This information would help me determine the reliability of the photo because